

Terrence McNally

Terrence McNally is a speaker, consultant, writer, and coach for foundations, corporations, public agencies, and non-profit organizations. His work focuses on the mastery of message and media and the power of storytelling. A graduate of Harvard, where he won its highest academic award, McNally hosts interview programs on radio and television. Guests have included Norman Lear, Ken Burns, Lester Brown, Bill Joy, William McDonough, Jeremy Rifkin, Eric Schlosser, Andrew Weil, Doris Kearns Goodwin and Jared Diamond. His interviews also appear on the web at <http://www.AlterNet.org/>. Having worked as an actor, writer, producer, and director, McNally's film "Earth Girls Are Easy" with Geena Davis, Jeff Goldblum and Jim Carrey is being developed as a Broadway musical. Terrence believes all of his work, whether in the media or as a speaker, is congruent -- all of it tapping the power of compelling stories in pursuit of a world that just might work.
